Construction Trends

Threat Of Tightened Controls
Causes New Housing Boom

REPEATED government threats to tighten controls on construction are touching off a moderate housing boom in many sections of the nation.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics says home building jumped ten per cent last month. And the Bureau predicts the boom will last at least until early March.

In its regular monthly report, BLS estimates builders started 68,000 new homes and apartments in January as compared with 62,000 in December. January's volume is still some 20 per cent below output a year ago but the rise above December was unexpected and could pave the way for severe government measures to hold down production.

One mobilization official estimates output is now running at a rate of one million dwellings yearly, about 20 per cent more than the goal set by the government.

This official warns that the government is watching home building volume closely and if, for example, the February figure should rise as high as 80,000 units, as it did last year, there will be trouble.

The BLS report took special note of the February situation. It said the number of building permits issued in January was 25 per cent higher than the previous month, meaning a big volume of housing starts is in the offing.

BLS SAID two-thirds of the cities reporting showed increases in the numbers of permits issued. Sharp hikes were noted in the South and West.

Some of the cities listed in the latter category included: Atlanta, Denver, Detroit, Long Beach and Los Angeles, Calif., San Antonio, Tex., Washington D. C. and Wichita, Kan.

New York and Cincinnati were on the decline.

Both categories of housing showed increase last month. Private home building was up six per cent to 64,800 and public housing volume totaled 3,200 units.

its, almost three times the December rate.

On the defense housing front the Housing and Home Finance Agency reports that 3,975 dwellings have been started since the program was inaugurated last fall.

HHNA says 2,001 rental and 1,974 sales units are now in the construction stage. Some 69,760 dwellings have been authorized.

THE NATIONAL Association of Home Builders says the program is gradually increasing but not at faster rates. This is due to the money problem.

NAHB points out that as of Feb. 6 builders have applied for 211,043 units—almost three times the number available—but financing problems are preventing the industry from moving ahead on the projects.

With Congress looking into the entire mortgage money situation, NAHB is hopeful that action will be taken shortly to handle the defense housing problem and provide funds for G. I. home loans.

The National Production Authority says there will be ample supplies of garden tools this spring and summer for home owners.

NPA says there will probably be a restricted choice of styles available to home owners because some manufacturers are consolidating their lines to save materials.

BUT AN ADEQUATE supply of steel is being made available so there should be no shortages of hoes, spades, rakes, shovels, wheelbarrows and smaller garden equipment like edgers, weedeaters, clippers and other items.

Hand sprayers as well as dusters and the chemicals usually employed in the garden are also expected to be in ample supply.

The Census Bureau has placed an average value of $10,800 on some 15 million single family homes in the United States.

While the dollar figure is based on the 1950 census of housing and values have gone up since then, the census points out that about one-third of the nation's homes are in this category.

The Bureau also says that 55 per cent of the nation's 42 million occupied dwelling units are being used by their owners. And more than half of the 17,531,000 home owners living in one to four family structures are free of mortgage debt.

Vegetable Storage Bin
Cuts Grocery Bill

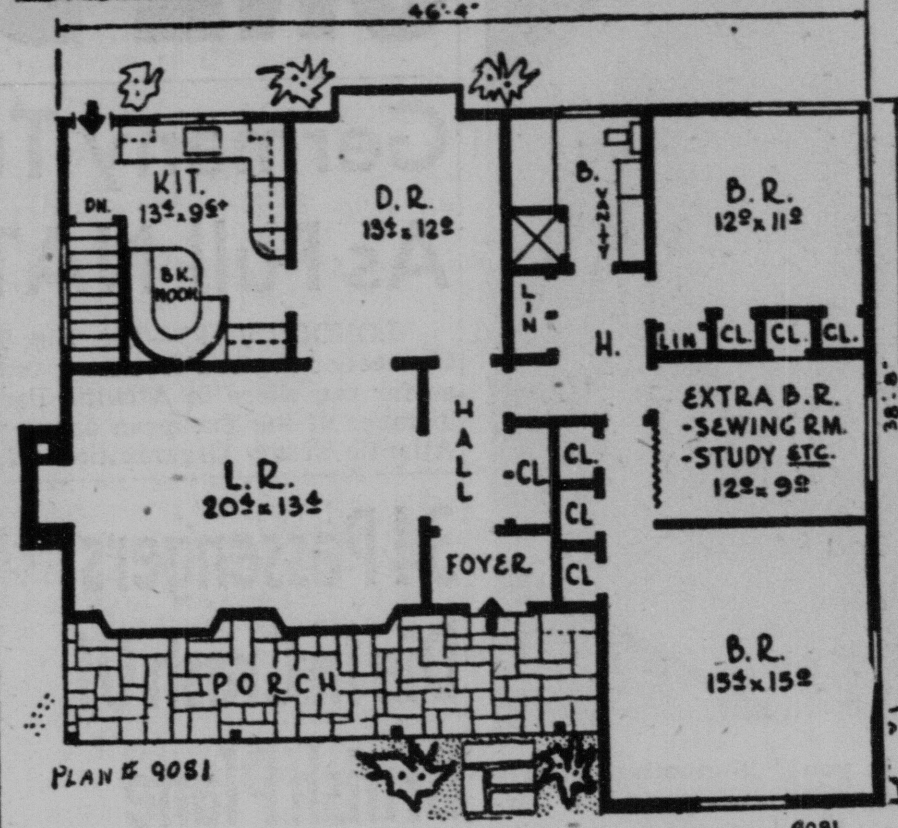

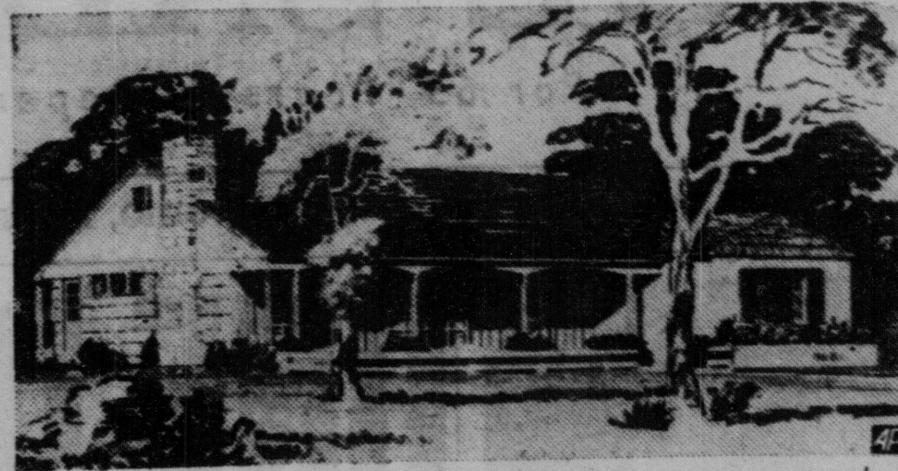

One way to cut the grocery bill these days is to buy fruits and vegetables in quantities when they are plentiful and can them for future use. A basement corner near a window can be transformed at little cost into a neat, efficient storage.

Practically all the materials needed for an average size room of this type are some 2x4s for framing members, about six sheets of 4x8-foot insulating board, an inexpensive door and a few lengths of stovepipe equipped with a damper. The stovepipe is for installation as a fresh air vent in the window.

Insulating board, nailed to framing to form two walls of the room, will retard entrance of heat and thus keep the room cool, uniform temperatures. The masonry foundation walls serving as the other two walls of storage need not be covered. It is advisable to finish off the ceiling of the storage with insulating board if the room above is heated.

If in doubt as to the exact procedure in starting the room, consult your local lumber dealer.

Saint Vitus dance derived its name from St. Vitus because it was believed the saint could cure it, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

FARM HOUSE style for a suburban home, this design combines the advantages of the old colonial center hall with modern ranch house layout. This is Plan 9081 by Architect Herman York, 115 New Hyde Park Road, Garden City, N. Y. The house covers 1,420 square feet. Front and rear vestibules, built-in vanity in bathroom and twin bay windows in living room are among features of this plan. There are nine closets. Folding doors make it possible to convert the small bedroom into an open study or sewing room, or the rooms can be easily enclosed with a permanent partition. The house is planned for a full basement, but the space occupied by the stairs can be used for a heater room in basementless construction.

Hints On Caring
For Garden Tools

GARDENING can be a lot of fun, depending on how you take care of your tools. Clean spades, forks, hoes or rakes make lighter work but dirty tools tossed into a corner make the next day's work a real chore. A new spade is a pleasure to use. It cuts cleanly into the ground and comes out of the ground clean. How does your spade compare? If it is dull edged, pitted or rusted, it is hard to push into the ground. When pulled out, the clinging dirt has to be pried loose with a stick.

An important step in caring for garden tools is the choice of a storage place. They should not be kept in a damp basement or on a porch where there is apt to be a great deal of moisture. The garage is a better place to keep them. Hang the long handled tools on pegs on the wall, even if you have to drill holes in the handles. Lawnmowers, wheelbarrows and other wheel tools should be stored against the wall and blocked so they cannot roll. Smaller hand tools may be kept on shelves or work bench. Cover all metal with a film of vaseline.

Tools which have been allowed to rust and become pitted will never be as efficient as when new. However, they may be greatly improved by first going over them with a wire brush and then with coarse steel wool. Go over the worst spots with fine emery cloth so the dirt-catching pits aren't so deep.

After the tools have been thoroughly cleaned they should be sharpened. If you use a grinding wheel, be careful about grinding too long in one spot and taking the temper out of the tool. If you use a file, remember to file a spade toward the end of the blade and file a hoe against the bevel. Scythes and sickles should be sharpened with a whetstone. Clippers and shears can often be taken apart and sharpened on a grinder, finishing with a clean oil stone. The best way to grind an axe is on the old-fashioned grindstone. A grinding wheel may be used with care and the blade finished to a fine edge with a whetstone.

Insulated Barns
Aid Productivity

WHILE THE value of insulating dairy barns and other animal shelters for greater winter productivity has become generally recognized by progressive farmers, many still do not fully appreciate the benefits which insulation brings in hot weather, agricultural experts declare.

Just as it helps safeguard livestock health by keeping them warmer in winter, insulation operates to keep animals cooler and more comfortable in summer, the experts point out.

One specialist at a leading agricultural college reports that "providing summer comfort for the cow is even more important than proper feeding."

Most cows, he explains, experience discomfort when the temperature is over 85 degrees. This discomfort is reflected in their milk output. In one test cows were kept in a room where the temperature was controlled. They showed little variation in milk flow as long as the temperature did not exceed 70 degrees. Each cow produced from 27 to 29 pounds of milk daily. When the temperature ranged from 90 to 95 degrees, milk flow dropped to 17 to 20 pounds per cow.

A simple and economical way to insulate a dairy barn or any other type of animal shelter is to line the interior walls and ceiling with insulating board. The material can be applied quickly by nailing over framing members or over existing walls and ceilings.

It is available in large sheets which are easy to handle and cut. No special tools are required. The board can be obtained from any lumber dealer.

Portable Folding Screen
Not Difficult To Build

A portable folding screen, which can be constructed by almost anyone who knows how to use a hammer, comes in handy around the house, especially in the nursery.

In winter, for example, it can be placed beside the crib to protect baby from drafts. It is useful, of course, at any time as a partition to shut off an area from view.

Such a screen is made easily by applying insulating board to simple hinged framework. The insulating board can be papered or painted to harmonize with any decorative plan. For nursery use, colorful decals are appropriate. The board can be obtained from lumber dealers in a variety of sizes from which the desired panels can be cut.

Floor Creaks Often Due To Loosened Nails

MUSIC HAS charms to soothe, the poets say, but it has nothing of the kind when it's made by two floor boards rubbing together.

Grandma in her rocker may contend that such squeals and groans are no worse than the jazz that comes out of the radio. If you're like Grandma—and many people are—you're lucky. You'll think such noises are just nice homey sounds—like a duet by a mouse and a crow.

But if you're like Mrs. M.J.J. of Minneapolis who says a creaking floor "is getting me down," you'll have to take a hammer in hand or be a nervous wreck.

Floor creaks almost always are caused by the loosening of nails that hold the subflooring to the joists. The nails get loose from shrinkage and drying out of the lumber. Happens in any house.

IF YOUR BASEMENT ceiling is open—uncovered—with the joists and subfloor exposed, as most are, you can watch the subfloor movement while someone steps back and forth on the squeaky place. If the space between the top of the joist and the floor boards is merely paper thin, a few finishing nails driven all the way through finish floor, subfloor and into the joists should do the job.

But if it appears that the joist or floor has warped and there is noticeable space between them, drive a thin wedge, such as the thin end of a shingle between them. Then drive nails through the floor and through the wedges to hold them in place.

RESIN-COATED finishing or casing nails, two inches long should be used for this work. Use at least two nails at each creaking place. Drive them at different angles to lock the floor to the joist. When the nail is driven in within a quarter inch of the floor, use a nail set for the rest of the distance to avoid marring the wood. Sink the head of the nail below the surface and fill the hole with wood putty or wood filler.

To locate the joist under the floor, notice below in what direction the joist runs and estimate the location of the nearest wall. Then measure the floor from the creaking point to the wall. Most joists are spaced 16 inches on centers.

TO LOCATE the joists under the second floor, or over any finished ceiling, and to determine the direction they run is more difficult. You may be able to find them by tapping gently on the ceiling with your knuckles. Spaces between joists will ring hollow; joists will sound solid. Then measure from a wall that will be in the same place upstairs. You won't be able to use wedges, of course, but nailing may suffice.

Sometimes mild cases of squeaking can be remedied without nails. Take up the carpet, find the squeaking place and try to force the floor down. To do this take several thicknesses of old carpet or folded newspapers for padding, place a block on top and pound vigorously. The pad will protect the surface of the floor.

Navy Erects Powerful Global Radio Station

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Navy says it is building the most powerful radio station in the world to enable the high command to keep in touch with the fleet anywhere around the globe. The million-watt station, a classified secret until yesterday, is being erected near Snohomish, Wash. It includes three 200-foot towers built on hilltops flanking a canyon. Antennae are 7,200 feet long.

Studebaker Firm Marks 100th Year

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP)—The Studebaker Corporation, largest of the nation's so-called "independent" motor vehicle producers, is looking back upon its first hundred years.

Beginning of the company's second "fiscal" century was observed Saturday at a dinner at the University of Notre Dame sponsored by the South Bend Association of Commerce.

It was on Feb. 16, 1852, that Henry and Clem Studebaker opened a blacksmith shop here and announced they could build wagons. Their first day's business grossed exactly 25 cents, their charge for putting two shoes on a horse. It was several weeks later before they built their first farm wagon for $175. They built two more that year.

When Studebaker's assembly plants closed down for the week-end, its records showed that in 100 years it had built 7,130,890 vehicles, of which 3,000,000 were of the horsedrawn variety—wagons, carriages, buggies and the like.

The records also showed that the original capitalization of $63 and two sets of blacksmith tools with which the Studebaker brothers began their small business had grown into a 65 million dollar capitalization.

Homeworth

Peggy Jo Allison, Jerry McQuilkin, Billy Allison and Norman Wallace were accepted as new members when the G.L.D. Missionary Circle of Homeworth Presbyterian Church met recently. The program opened with singing "I Have the Joy" and "The Church's One Foundation." Roll call was answered by naming a Bible animal or favorite Bible story.

Several of the boys and girls revealed their plans for increasing their missionary dollar which was given them at a previous meeting. Mrs. Donald K. McGarrah's missionary topic, "God's Map Has No Edges," was interestingly developed and illustrated by use of many different kinds of maps.

Mrs. George McLaughlin introduced the open Bible study series for juniors, which will be followed in future meetings.

Mrs. Stuart M. Johnston Sr. and daughter, Mrs. William Jones, have returned home after spending several days in the home of Mrs. Johnston's brother, George Hunter and family of Montpelier and the families of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Clark and Mr. and Mrs. John Lee of Bryan.

Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Jackson celebrated the 25th anniversary of their marriage at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Baker.

Mrs. Barbara Beery, wife of Rev. I. Beery, former pastor of the Church of the Brethren, is seriously ill at her home in Mt. Pleasant.

Gas Well Fire Stops

RENOVA, Pa. (AP)—Experts worked today amid explosive gases trying to cap a huge natural gas well 10 miles north of here that blew itself out yesterday after burning 36 hours. A massive cap, capable of withstanding pressure of 10,000 pounds per square inch, was being rushed from New York to get the well under control before there is another explosion.

Navy Unveils New Jet

BETHPAGE, N. Y. (AP)—The Navy has released a photograph of the new Grumman Cougar jet fighter being built here which it describes as "much faster" than the Panther jet now being used by Navy and Marine fliers in Korea. Officially the F9F-6, the Cougar was pictured as a swept-wing successor to the F9F-5 Panther. It is "rated in the over 600 miles per hour class."

Mrs. Holmes Fetes Beloit Bible Class

BELOIT—The Ladies' Bible Class of Friends' Church held its regular monthly meeting with Mrs. Holmes. Mrs. Robertson had charge of devotions. The Lord's prayer was prayed. Mrs. Celia Thompson conducted the business. Mrs. Eva Cattell and Mrs. Blanche Mercer had charge of the social hour. Lunch was served by the hostess.

A group of ladies from Friends' Church choir furnished special music for the Damascus revival at Friends' Church, also at Alliance Friends' Church where Burt Turner is the evangelist. Rev. Janie Bradford is the evangelist at the Damascus meeting.

The Progressive Sunday School Class taught by Mrs. Lena Mott held a casserole supper at the home of Virginia Weizenecker last week. The business meeting was held around the table with Mrs. Alice Steves, president, in charge. Mrs. Herman Hartley conducted the devotions.

Miss Freda Grishberger had charge of Junior C.E. at Friends' Church Sunday evening.

The morning worship service at Friends' Church was set aside for all Scouts, past and present. Rev. Owen Glassburn spoke on the subject, "Be Prepared." Cottage prayer meeting was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Notman.

Temperance Union

A very interesting Women's Christian Temperance Union meeting was held with the president of the union, Mrs. Lewis Glass. Songs were sung. Mrs. Celia Thompson had charge of devotions. Each member present answered the roll call with scripture or a current event. Anna Marie Glassburn sang a solo; Howard Case played a piano solo; Mrs. Aletha Reese read a poem.

Mrs. Leland Glass reviewed the life of "Frances Willard." Mrs. Lewis Glass contributed some very interesting comments concerning Miss Willard. Refreshments in keeping with Valentine's Day were served by the hostess, assisted by her daughter, Mrs. Ernest Case, and daughter-in-law, Mrs. Leland Glass. Mrs. Elmer Mercer and Mrs. Marjorie Cline were visitors.

Miss Betty Tatsch, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Tatsch, spent the weekend with her parents. Miss Tatsch is attending Western Reserve University.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Sams and daughter, Dorothy, and Mrs. Rachel Cattell have returned from a trip to Florida.

Mrs. Velma Hearn and two children of Sebring and Mrs. Evelyn Sams and daughters called on Mrs. Herman Hartley recently.

Donald Townsend arrived Sunday morning to spend an eight-day furlough with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Townsend. Donald is serving in the Marines.

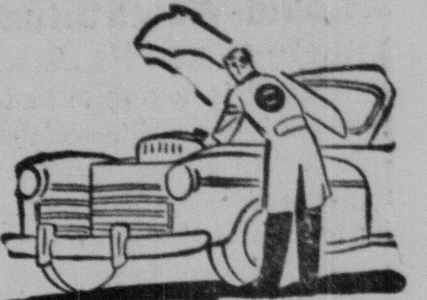

Martha Lee and Cora Boyle were recent dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. James King and family, and also Mr. and Mrs. William Brubaker.

Plans are in progress for a spaghetti supper to be held at the High School to help students on their Washington trip. A bake sale was held Saturday.

Steven Shuttler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Shuttler, has been ill the past few days. Mr. Shuttler has been stationed with the armed forces in Germany.

Miss Lois Blosser, third and fourth grade teacher at Beloit school, is on duty again following an illness.

Mrs. Lea Weddle has been ill the past week of a throat infection.

A Could-Would Situation

PHILIP MURRAY'S claim that the steel industry is hoping to bait his United Steelworkers into a strike—or the threat of a strike—to justify a price increase suggests that the union may be discounting its own responsibility for a probable price increase.

Mr. Murray knows that if his union gets most of what it's demanding there would be a price increase in steel. That has happened every time his union has used its bargaining power to prod the inflationary spiral into another upward spin.

But Mr. Murray, if he knows that, also knows there would be no price increase in steel and no further spinning of the inflationary spiral if steel wages were to be stabilized where they are now, at about 2 an hour.

United Steelworkers could perform this act of economic statesmanship if it wanted to perform it. It would win for itself the gratitude of everybody who would criticize it for doing the opposite.

Theory to the contrary notwithstanding, there would be a price increase in steel if the cost of producing steel were increased by a higher wage rate and a schedule of fringe benefits. Since the increase would cheapen the buying power of dollars for more than its face amount, workers in the steel industry would lose just as much as anyone else.

The Problem Is People

CIRCUMSTANCES of the three plane crashes in Elizabeth, N. J., suggest that coincidence is the probable explanation.

The cause could not be Newark airport, because the accidents did not occur there and could not have been caused by anything which happened there.

Yet, New York Port Authority has closed down Newark airport. It recognizes that the problem it is dealing with is people, not aviation.

The closing of the airport will give thousands of jittery residents of Elizabeth a temporary release from anxiety. And they are just as important as the people who will not be able to use the airport.

They have invested their money in property. They had chosen Elizabeth as a place in which to live, perhaps, even before the builders of Newark airport had chosen it as a place to fly from.

They have rights which must be respected. Contrary to what threatens to become of credo in America, there is nothing so important about rushing to and fro that it wipes out all other rights.

In the further development of aviation, with far more hazards to come than have been encountered yet, the problems of the groundlings will have to be considered, too.

The Voice Of What?

NO LESS than 55 Americans will help to represent the United States in the forthcoming meetings of the North Atlantic Council at Lisbon, Portugal. Headed by Secretary of State Acheson, they will discuss some 32 subjects of importance to the security of the North Atlantic community.

It will be their duty to speak for the largest and strongest member of the community. Their decisions in this session, as in eight previous decisions, will have direct bearing on the rate of government spending for security. Other delegates will pay close attention to the decisions of the 55 Americans.

It is of more than passing interest, in the light of the foreign-policy issue in American politics, that the 55 Americans are appointees of executive authority. They are in no sense the voice of the American people; they speak only for the Truman administration.

This much is certain, that if government decisions outside the structure of ordinary government are going to be made—and they are—then there must be some way to give a voice in the decisions to all the American people.

They will not be satisfied in the long run to have themselves represented in international affairs by men and women who could not be elected to such a post of responsibility.

The average man gets 112 letters a year. We'll bet our boys in service would like to be included in that.

A boy's crime school was discovered in the mid-west. To some boys that could mean any school.

Saving paper helps Uncle Sam—especially if it's the kind on which government bonds are printed.

It won't be long until spring cleaning, when women remove all of the junk from the attic before putting it back.

Price Control

By PETER EDSON

Renewal Fight Centers on Two Amendments

BIGGEST argument over renewal of price control legislation is apt to center around the Capehart and Herlong amendments. President Truman's message to Congress gave them special treatment as "bad legislation."

Florida Congressman A. S. Herlong's amendment guarantees wholesalers and retailers their pre-Korea percentage mark-ups on profits. This tends to pyramid cost and price increases, instead of limiting them to fixed dollars and cents amounts.

Indiana Sen. Homer E. Capehart's amendment is the more complicated and controversial of the two. It permits sellers to apply for price increases based on cost increases prior to July 26, 1951.

The Office of Price Stabilization was trying to hold prices in line with costs as of Jan. 26, 1951. The Capehart amendment in effect gave business an additional six months' allowance on cost increases.

When Gov. Ellis Arnall of Georgia was being examined by the Senate Banking committee to confirm his appointment as Director of Stabilization, Senator Capehart defended his amendment. He said the whole price control law was good and it had been well administered.

THE HOOSIER Senator said Congress had always been ahead of the President on price controls. He accused the President of having done nothing about controls from September 1950 to January 26, 1951. But since that latter date, prices had advanced only three per cent.

Referring to President Truman's half-dozen examples of price increases under the Capehart amendment, the Senator said the President could have suspended those increases if they were "unreasonable and excessive."

Senator Blair Moody of Michigan nailed Senator Capehart on that one. Senator Moody pointed out that under the amendment, the President had no authority to suspend the price increases themselves.

All he could do was suspend the claims for unreasonable and excessive increases in costs.

As a matter of fact, nobody knows what effect the Capehart and Herlong amendments have had on prices. OPS is now trying to find out. But all it has now is the few examples given the President for his message to Congress, asking for repeal of these amendments.

Up to now, only 1194 manufacturers have filed papers for Capehart amendment price increases. They cover 4777 items.

There are between 400,000 and 500,000 manufacturing firms in the U. S. They may make several million lines of products.

It is therefore apparent that less than one-third of 1 per cent of these firms have applied for Capehart amendment increases.

Included in these applications are 160 for machinery price increases, 32 for forest products, 219 for food products, 79 for consumer soft goods such as wearing apparel, 788 for consumer durable goods such as household appliances, 467 rubber, chemical and drug products, and 3032 industrial products.

The big item in the last category is automobiles. President Truman's message estimated that Capehart and Herlong price increases would cost auto buyers $400 million dollars next year.

THIS FIGURE is largely a guess that auto prices will be increased by 5 per cent. But nobody knows, because not all the auto companies have as yet had their increases approved. Also, their price increases have not been reflected at retail.

OPS has turned down a number of applications for Capehart and Herlong price increases because they were submitted with incomplete cost accounting data. Still other applications have been cut back from say 8 or 10 to 5 per cent increases.

One reason there haven't been more applications for price increases under these amendments is that so many firms do not have accurate cost accounting systems.

Also, OPS forms 100 and 105 on which such applications must be made are long and complicated.

In questioning Governor Arnall, Sen. J. Allen Frear of Delaware asked him, "Will you write regulations that we laymen can understand?" Governor Arnall replied that he couldn't guarantee it, but that he would undertake to talk the language of the man in the street.

Senator Moody made an admonition on that, too. "Put in some periods once in a while," he advised the new price boss.

These two warnings also put the finger on the fundamental weaknesses of the Capehart and Herlong amendments. From the practical standpoint of trying to administer them, they are almost unworkable legislation.

I Wuzza Meatball

By TRUMAN TWILL

QUICKEST way to turn a buck any more in this upside-down vale of tears is to become an I-Wuzza. The organization is not exclusive.

Anyone caught with his hand in his neighbor's pocket, or putting a knife in his aged grandmother's back can join up by selling his confession to a publisher with a strong stomach.

Biggest opportunists at the moment are the "I-Wuzzas-Communists," as repentant a gang of cutthroats as ever drooled over the prospect of stringing up a preacher by his thumbs.

Their confessions' command top price in the publishing field though carrying no guarantee they won't be repudiated instantaneously if an order to that effect is relayed from the Kremlin by fast rat.

Another juicy field of opportunity for I-Wuzzas has been opened up recently with the springing of the trap on thieves in the Bureau of Internal Revenue. For the next few years, strong stomachs will be challenged by "I-Wuzza Sniveling Thief in the Government" pieces.

There will be—already have been—innumerable nausea tempters by characters who decided to pull up the curtain on all the chowder-headed damfoolishness they helped to foist off on the poor dumb public while employed as government brain-trusters.

Each one of these fellows who were going to make over the world by twisting it to suit themselves scurried into print sooner or later with an I-Wuzza manuscript. It is not true that these characters join the government only to help cream up things so they can write I-Wuzza books—but it seems that way.

Also prominent among I Wuzzas are dope addicts, white slavers, blind-pig operators, professional assassins, strong-arm operators, honkey-tonkers and pickpockets. It's a rare magazine rack or book stall any more which does not display prominently some proof that it pays to live outside the pale of decency.

There is no market for writings by human beings who never went berserk in the first place. No one is interested in the fact they stayed on the reservation all their lives, never entering into a conspiracy to commit mass murder, to rob an orphan's piggy bank, or to cheat a widow out of her life's savings.

Their careers have no bounce, no glamor. Their testimonials as to what it feels like not to have been a skunk have no market value. What the publishers are looking for is what they would expect to find beneath a wet rock.

The way to hit the jackpot is to take the grating off a sewer and dive in. If you can stay down long enough to prove you have a real aptitude for living in sewers, you are qualified to make a career of writing.

You take pen in hand and join the I-Wuzzas... "I wuzza sewer rat." You do not specify what you are now, other than to hint you must be a bona fide American hero because you are living on top of the ground, where other people always have lived.

Poor saps. How much money did they ever earn for never wanting to live in sewers?

THOUGHT FOR THE DAY
No man ever prayed heartily without learning something.

The Result of United Civic Action

By DR. GEORGE S. BENSON

WHEN a nation has a sound economic system, with incentives and freedoms such as we have in the United States, there still may be some backward areas where there is lack of leadership and vision and where improvement in the standard of living for the whole population drags very slowly.

Nobody has been starving, of course, but there has been a noticeable lag in progress and general betterment in some few areas.

In my journeys through our country I've seen some of these slow-to-progress areas. This column today is a report on what has happened to one of them. The report reflects great credit on 1,000 Arkansas business and professional men who have provided leadership and vision and a willingness to spend their energies and resources for the common good.

A FEW YEARS AGO I visited a small city in Arkansas and found its commerce and social life to be standing still—making no visible progress. The leading hotel had frayed carpets on the lobby floor, the Main Street buildings were droopy-looking and in need of paint, many dwellings and yards were untended, and it seemed to me that even the people themselves moved about the streets listlessly. There appeared to be no pride, no ambition present.

Today this little Arkansas city which was fast asleep a few years ago is wide awake and soundly prosperous; living standards throughout the population are high, opportunities are wide open for everybody.

It is probably the fastest growing community in the South. You immediately ask—What has happened? The answer is that its business and professional men were awakened and prodded into civic action by an organization called "The Arkansas Economic Council." In its ten years of existence the Council has proved to the whole state that people can "pull themselves up by their own bootstraps."

THE COUNCIL was founded by a handful of public-spirited business men. The primary purpose was to get new manufacturing plants started to boost the production of wealth in Arkansas—locally financed home industries to process local raw materials, and large out-of-state factories with big payrolls.

The handful of leaders went over the state buttonholing business men in the 75 counties. Soon they had enlisted 1,000 men. A technical staff was employed and a resources inventory was made in every county.

The business men in each community then held "Build Your Own Home Town" clinics. All kinds of people attended—from women's clubs, the schools, the churches, from all phases of the community's life. Local projects were scheduled on a priority basis and the citizens literally rolled up their sleeves and went to work.

New industries began to pop up all over the state; new parks and playgrounds appeared, school and health facilities were expanded and improved; downtown areas were modernized; new job opportunities opened up in more than 100 Arkansas communities.

The Council has just held its annual statewide meeting in Little Rock. More than 700 of the original 1,000 business and industrial executives and professional men interrupted busy schedules to attend. They all have been giving as much as several weeks each year to the "community development" clinics and to providing leadership in pushing to completion the projects selected in these clinics.

THE PROGRESS report made at the statewide meeting shows what people can do with this kind of leadership and inspiration. In ten years Arkansas has made the greatest economic growth in the nation, has lead all states in per capita income increase. Hundreds of new industries—big and little—have been established, thousands of new jobs created, millions of dollars in new payrolls created. In the past three years, 138 Arkansas communities have held the clinics and have begun to improve themselves—modernize, pave streets, build playgrounds, improve their schools, and to do the other things that go along with wholesome progress.

The Socialists and their followers are always hammering away at the American business man. Yet, when all the facts are known he is revealed as the truly great progressive force, providing vision, leadership, know-how and willing service in America's march toward a still better life for all.

Health To You

Beware of Use of Sleeping Drugs

T. D. F. says, I have read a great deal of the dangers of taking sleeping pills and have wondered if this applies to the type that may be bought at any drug store without a prescription.

"One of these is advertised as containing no narcotics or barbitals. Do they affect the breathing centers of the brain and would it be dangerous for a person with one lung to take them occasionally?"

As Mr. F. points out, the danger of taking sleeping pills has been generally recognized.

As a result, most states now have laws which prohibit drug stores from selling sleeping pills containing barbiturates, except a doctor's prescription.

This is for the protection of the public and in order to avoid some of the dangerous effects of taking such pills in too large quantities, or too often.

To answer the question specifically, I should be doubtful that any pill which really induced sleep would be entirely safe to take, except under direction.

Without knowing the particular drug or drugs included in the pill, it would be hard to know whether it would affect the brain or would be dangerous for a person with one lung.

By all odds, drugs containing barbiturates are the most commonly used for sleeping purposes. These are various combinations of chemical substances, called barbituric acid. The barbiturates can cause acute poisoning.

A group of 13 hospitals, for example, collected 643 cases of poisoning by these drugs. These patients had taken large overdoses and were sick enough to have to go to a hospital.

Doubtless, there were many others who had taken a little too much and had merely been slightly sick or overslept.

Some people are especially sensitive to the barbiturate drugs. Such persons can get reactions from only small quantities.

Some people become addicted to barbiturates, that is, they develop a habit and liking which is difficult to throw off and, of course, may produce harm if it is not.

Most people who develop the barbiturate habit do so because they have been using the pills for sleeplessness. The habit usually takes several months or even years to become established.

Occasionally someone has trouble stopping even if they have used sleeping tablets for less than a month.

Those who are in the habit of taking a sleeping drug find they have to take larger and larger quantities and that even then the results are less and less successful.

Chronic poisoning is possible. One woman who had taken barbiturates for several months became mentally incompetent, lost control of her elimination, lost weight, and had to be fed with a spoon.

Sleeping drugs should be taken with caution. They act on the nervous system and on other parts of the body. They should be avoided, except when there is some real reason for using them.

Kasserine Gap

By HAL BOYLE

U. S. Second Corps Took Beating

THE PRESENT French-Arab tension in Tunisia must bring back wry memories these days to thousands of American veterans.

For it was just nine years ago this week the U. S. Army's Second Corps was learning a bitter lesson in the art of warfare in the battle of Kasserine Gap.

Their teachers were the combat-hardened warriors of Field Marshal Rommel's famed Afrika Korps. Pursued more than 1,000 miles across the sands from Libya by Montgomery's tenacious "desert rats," the Nazi commanders were hungry for gas and other supplies.

They decided to get them from the Americans, spread thinly along the right flank of the Tunisian corridor. Their hope was to crash the Yank line, roll their Panzers north to Constantine, a big Allied base, and wrap up the British Second Army en route. With no enemy at his back, Rommel could then turn his freshly supplied armor around and deal again with his old foe, Montgomery.

THE BREAKTHROUGH plan was almost exactly the same as that employed later in the war by the Nazis in their daring, hopeless gamble in the battle of the Belgian Bulge. And it failed for the same reason—in neither case did the Germans quite reach our supply bases.

But it looked like an easy touch in those early Tunisian days. The Americans were outgunned, outnumbered, and relatively untried by battle.

Leisurely the Nazis massed and in a sudden night attack seized Faid Pass from its French infantry defenders. This gave them an opening down into the plains. Fearful that this was only a diversionary action and that the Germans would make their main drive through a pass farther north, the Allied command refused to let the Americans group and throw all its force in a single unified counter-attack.

The American units therefore went into action one at a time, and were simply chopped to pieces or forced to fall back in the face of the superior weight of the wheeling Panzers.

I REMEMBER STANDING with Ernie Pyle on the second day of the battle on a field redolent of almond blossoms shaken from the trees by the blasting guns. As far forward as the eye could see the area was littering with the hulks of burning American tanks and we felt like crying.

There were men in those tanks we had come to know as friends in a few short weeks, and they were dead now in a struggle against hopeless odds. It seemed like a great waste of human bravery then. And, looking back now, I guess I still feel that way.

That night Combat Command "B" of the First Armored Division, a tremendous fighting outfit, held back the Germans at Sbeitla, once a Roman outpost, while our trucks in relays carried back our supplies. Those that couldn't be removed were put to the torch and the flames flickered about the old Roman ruins, ghostly in the black night.

This great stand helped defeat the Nazis. They went on through Kasserine Gap, driving the Americans back 40 miles. But the Panzers never reached the gas dumps for which they were thirsting. British tanks and artillery trundled down to support the hard-pressed Yanks, and baffled by this new strength at Thala Pass, Rommel pulled back.

IT WAS THE BEGINNING of the end for his Afrika Korps, one of the great armies of history. The battered American force was taken over by two new generals—George Patton and Omar Bradley—and they began to build it into a mighty army.

Where are all these men now, the green soldiers who fought so well in the dry wadis and rocky djebebs of Tunisia? Ernie Pyle is dead, and the men he wrote about are scattered widely.

Nothing exists of that battle now, except shards of old metal rusting in the time-less sands, and the memories of men who shared loyalty and danger there. Was it only nine short years ago, or a century? Nothing is as temporary as an army.

Gov. Long Faces Test Of Power

Louisiana Governor Race To Be Tuesday

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Gov. Earl K. Long confronts a coalition of state Democratic factions in a test of power tomorrow when Louisiana elects a new governor. He is backing Carlos Spaht, former state district judge of Baton Rouge, his hand picked choice as his successor. The state constitution bars the governor from succeeding himself.

Appeal Judge Robert Kennon of Monden, in north Louisiana, is an independent candidate, backed by seven independents eliminated in the first Democratic primary Jan. 15.

Technically the election is to select the Democratic gubernatorial nominee but in this one-party state that nomination is equivalent to election.

The primary issue is the same as in the first primary — Long vs anti-Long.

Kennon is pledged to tax reductions and proposes to take great spending powers from the governor in order to make the Legislature independent.

Spaht promised to continue the program of Governor Long, including the $50 a month old-age pensions. He says tax reductions are not possible without sacrificing some present government benefits.

Spaht was a political unknown until he entered the race with the backing of Governor Long, a brother of the late Huey P. Long. The candidate said that despite the governor's backing, he would act independently if elected.

Five Children Die In Columbus Blaze

COLUMBUS (AP) — Five small children were killed yesterday when an over-heated stove set their home afire while they slept.

Acting Coroner Carl E. Tetrick said the children, from eight months to four years, probably were asphyxiated by smoke before the fire reached them.

Their burned bodies were found in two upstairs bedrooms of a seven-room house occupied by three Negro families on the outskirts of Columbus.

Sheriff's deputies identified the dead as Larry, 2, Robert, 3, and Marvin Corbett, eight months, sons of Mrs. Elizabeth Corbett, and Jackie, 13 months, and Donald Corbett, 4, sons of Mrs. Ollie Mae Corbett.

Officers said Mrs. Elizabeth Corbett had left for work at 6:30 a. m., after building a fire in a coal stove in one of the upstairs rooms.

Sheriff, Coroner Still Differ In Hatchet Case

YOUNGSTOWN (AP) — Youngstown Police Chief Edward J. Allen has told Dr. Thomas A. Gonzales, New York City's medical examiner, about the mysterious death of George W. Brantner, 74.

Allen still refuses to rule out the possibility of suicide, even though Dr. David Belinky, the coroner, has ruled homicide. If Dr. Gonzales "shows any interest," said Allen, "I will ask him to come here for a first-hand look."

Akron Officer Shot

AKRON (AP) — Patrolman William H. Jackson, 34, is in critical condition with a bullet wound of the abdomen. He said two men jumped him in a cafe Saturday night and one of them shot him with his own gun. Two men have been arrested. All three are Negroes.

7 In Wedding Party Die In Car Smashup

KAYSVILLE, Utah (AP)—Seven members of a wedding party, including the bride and groom, were killed yesterday when their car crashed into a semi-trailer truck.

Killed were: Martin Edward Green, 22; his bride, Nellie June Wilson Green, 16; Ralph E. Green, 37, brother of the groom and driver of the death car; Mrs. Edna Wilson, 40, the bride's mother; Mrs. Phyllis Christensen, 38, aunt of the bride and Glen Charles Wadsworth, 38, all of Ogden, Utah, and Mrs. Clarence Sharpless, 33, of Clearfield, Utah.

The young couple had been married Saturday. Elmer B. Green, brother of two of the victims, told officers the party was celebrating the wedding.

Trooper Farlin Wood of the Utah State Highway Patrol, said the Green car failed to negotiate a curve on U.S. Highway 91 at the entrance to Kaysville and crashed into the trailer.

Lost 30 Lbs. Health Improved

Mrs. C. Ullman, 87 Erie St., Rittman, Ohio writes: "Before taking Rennel I was not only overweight, but I had trouble with gas, burning of the stomach and bloating. Since I started to take Rennel I have lost 30 lbs. and I can eat just about everything. I no longer have that bloating or stomach trouble. Also the swelling of my limbs which I had before has disappeared, so I know this was caused by my carrying so much weight around. I would recommend Rennel to anyone who is overweight, because you can lose weight, and you do not have to go hungry to do it."

Thousands have overcome the social and physical discomfort of being overweight with this effective home recipe. Obtain liquid Rennel at your drug store, mix with grapefruit juice as directed and take two tablespoonfuls twice a day. That's all there is to it. If reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't seem to disappear almost like magic with the very first bottle, just return it to the manufacturer for your money back. You need never know a hungry moment reducing with Rennel.

Buick even keeps the Sun in its Place

Of course, this new glass—which reduces glare and incoming sun-heat—is a Buick feature in '52

WITH all the new things we've had to talk about in 1952 Buicks, we're just getting around to this one.

It's called "Easy-Eye Glass"—a new kind of glass with a cool, soft, blue-green tint, which filters the sun's rays entering your car—cuts down their glare and heat.

You'll appreciate the "glare control" at any time—and when you hit your first stretch of hot-weather driving you'll find that this glass does a great job of keeping the heat out of your lap.

We know—because thousands of happy Buick owners already have this new comfort feature. The rest of the automobile industry is just beginning to discover what Buick discovered a year ago. It's a great idea, which costs you very little extra if you order it when you're buying a new car.

But this still leaves the other folks with a lot of catching up to do.

Strawns Feted By Lodge Members

MR. AND MRS. Lawrence Strawn shared the limelight at the meeting of members of Home Lodge, Daughters of Rebekah Friday evening in I.O.O.F. hall. The Strawns, who are very active in the work of Odd Fellowship, celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary last Monday.

A golden "50" was inscribed on the cake and the refreshment tables were decorated in gold and white in keeping with the anniversary theme. The Strawns also were presented a gift in behalf of the Rebekahs. Two songs, sung by Harold Babb, "In the Garden of Tomorrow" and "May the Good Lord Bless and Keep You," paid tribute to the couple.

George Rogers entertained the group with two recitations entitled "Gretchen Had a Baby" and "Hyperbol." Mrs. Charles Snelvel, who played for Mr. Babb's singing, also played "Silver Threads Among the Gold" and "Radio City."

At the lodge session presided over by Mrs. Edward Alexander, final plans were made for the benefit card party at 8 p.m. Tuesday in the hall. The Rebekahs also will serve a dinner for Damascus Odd Fellows March 3. A class of six candidates will be initiated at the next meeting, March 7.

Mrs. John Cobedesh, Mrs. James Fife, Mrs. D. G. Griffiths, Mrs. Warren Brown, Miss Ruby Grove and Mrs. Sherman Garlock were hostesses for this meeting. The social committee, headed by Mrs. Strawn, will serve at the March 7 meeting.

Civil Defense officials advise keeping several galvanized steel pails in home for fighting fires which could be caused by enemy air attacks.

Rev. Carl Asmus of the East Palestine Methodist Church witnessed the exchange of vows and rings in an altar setting enhanced with palms and vases of white snapdragons and calla lilies lighted by white tapers in two seven-branch candelabra.

David D. Jamison, organist, played a pre-nuptial recital of love melodies and heralded the wedding party with the traditional marches. Mr. Baldinger gave his daughter in marriage.

Wore Street-Length Dress

The attractive bride wore a street-length jacket dress of blue iridescent taffeta, fashioned with a petal-effect bodice and side-draped sheath skirt. The jacket, was styled with a standup collar and short sleeves with cuffs. A deep scoop neckline revealed the petal-effect fastened at the waist by a rhinestone pin.

She wore a small white mesh hat, sprinkled with rhinestone-centered stephanotis blossoms. For something borrowed, the bride carried her mother's Eastern Star Bible, topped by a white orchid with stephanotis caught up in lover's knots in the white ribbon streamers.

Miss Isabel High, college roommate of the bride, was maid of honor. Her iridescent taffeta street-length dress was in a bronze shade.

A portrait neckline and push-up sleeves complemented the fitted bodice and bouffant skirt. Her small hat of bronze mesh was trimmed with velvet ribbon and flowers to match. She wore a gold choker, a gift of the bride. Her colonial type bouquet was of talisman roses.

John Todd Best Man

John Todd of Columbus served the groom as best man, Richard Schmidt and Jack Graft of Youngstown were ushers. All the men are students at Ohio State University.

For her daughter's wedding, the bride's mother chose a dark green taffeta dress with contrasting pale pink accessories and a corsage of pale pink roses. Mrs. Pauli wore navy blue taffeta with pale yellow accessories and a yellow rose corsage.

The newlyweds welcomed their friends and relatives at a reception later in Brown Hall in Youngstown. A green and white color scheme was carried out in the three-tiered bridal cake and the decorations. The refreshment table was centered with an arrangement of snapdragons and calla lilies in a silver bowl.

Miss Shirley Mason presided at the guest register. Mrs. J. H. Benson, Mrs. Frank Mangus and Mrs. John Todd, assisted in serving the guests.

Will Return to O.S.U.

For their honeymoon the bride traveled in a circle-skirted navy blue and white pin-striped taffeta costume, complemented by red accessories and her bridal orchid. After a brief honeymoon Mr. and Mrs. Welsh will resume their studies at Ohio State University.

Guests attending the wedding were from Ontario, Calif., Wichita, Kan., Chicago, Kittinging, Pa., Columbus, Chesapeake, Marion, Ravenna, Akron, East Canton, Salem, Winona and Youngstown. Following the rehearsal Friday evening, Mr. and Mrs. Mogens Pauli entertained members of the wedding party.

GIVEN SURPRISE PARTY

Frank Ehrhart of S. Ellsworth Ave. was honored at a surprise birthday party at his home Sunday. He was 77. The party, in the form of a coverdish supper, was arranged by his children and grandchildren and a birthday cake was featured. He received a number of gifts.

center) is in glazed cotton, is topped by bulky, quilted jacket. A diagonal band of the print is set into the skirt. Sleek beige pima cloth (right center) makes dress with lampshade skirt. Halter neck sun dress (right) that can double for dates is in cotton skirt-shantung in Italian blue. It has an all over tiny dobby pattern.

Rev. Bailey Speaker At Father-Son Dinner

Forty-five fathers and sons of the Millville community enjoyed a dinner party Thursday evening in the Friendly Community Church.

Rev. Paul C. Bailey, pastor of the Boyce Methodist Church in East Liverpool, used "Never a Man Spoke Like This Man" for his theme and wove the father-son thought into his message. Ralph Moore, superintendent of the Sunday School, was toastmaster.

William Dinsio led the men and boys in song and with James and Richard Penrose and Ralph Moore comprised the quartet which sang several selections. "Whispering Hope" was Paul Lippitt's guitar number.

A moving picture of missions in India was shown by Carl Lippitt. Mrs. Gerald Lippitt and Mrs. Roy Lippitt arranged the attractive tables decorated with red and white in the Valentine theme. Assisting with the dinner were Mrs. Valda Lippitt, Mrs. Carl Lippitt and Mrs. Richard Penrose.

How King's Death Changes Succession---

With the death of Britain's King George VI and the accession to the throne of his older daughter, Elizabeth, the status of other members of the royal family changes drastically, as shown below. The British royal succession always goes through the male line.

THREE-YEAR-OLD Prince Charles becomes heir apparent and, if he lives, will eventually succeed his mother, the new Queen on the throne. He does not automatically become Prince of Wales, but must be elected to that title by the people of Wales.

AFTER Prince Charles, his 18-months-old sister, Princess Anne, becomes heir presumptive, which means that after his death she would succeed him unless Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip should have another son. In that case, the new son would be king.

ASSUMING the incapacity of both Prince Charles and Princess Anne to ascend the throne and assuming that the King and Queen have no other son in the future, the succession passes to Princess Margaret Rose, younger daughter of the late King George.

PRINCE PHILIP, the new Queen's husband, becomes Prince Consort almost 112 years to the day when Britain last had one. The last Prince Consort was Prince Albert of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha who married Queen Victoria on Feb. 10, 1840. The Prince Consort cannot succeed to the throne.

QUEEN ELIZABETH, widow of the late King, becomes Queen Mother, the title now held by Queen Mary, widow of King George V. The Queen Mother is always the mother of the reigning monarch. In British custom, there is no such official title as "Dowager Queen."

QUEEN MARY, who became Queen Mother when King Edward VIII, now the Duke of Windsor, ascended the throne, now becomes just "Queen Mary." She retained the Queen Mother title after the abdication and through George VI's reign because he also was her son.

Howard Pardee Guest Conductor At Festival

Howard Pardee, instrumental music director in Salem Public Schools, was one of four guest conductors at the annual High School music festival Saturday at Ohio Wesleyan University at Delaware.

Four members of the Salem High School band participating in the event were Nancy Bailey and Barbara McArtor, clarinet; Charles Coburn, bass horn and Wendell Dunn, baritone horn.

The young people, with 800 other instrumentalists from 64 schools in Ohio, played in one of four bands which rehearsed morning and afternoon for the concert presented in the evening in Gray chapel on the campus.

Mr. and Mrs. Erwin Sohn of W. School St. are vacationing in St. Petersburg, Fla.

Progressive Mothers Entertain Husbands

Dinner and dancing was the order of the evening Saturday when members of the Progressive Mothers Club entertained their husbands at their annual party.

The affair was held at Horvaths on the Canfield Rd. and places were laid for 30 at the U-shaped table decorated in the red and white theme carried out in milk glass and red crystal. Red name cards marked each place. Milk glass held red tapers and red carnations were the flower complement.

Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert directed the dancing at the party arranged by Mrs. Kenneth Pinkerton, Mrs. Howard Trotter and Mrs. Al Kitzman. The next meeting March 4 will be held at the home of Mrs. Allen Chandler on W. 10th St. Mrs. Don Reichert will discuss the art of homemaking.

Relative Suspects Youth Of Stealing

Alfred Tucker, 17-year-old auto thief who fled the juvenile room in East Liverpool City Hall Tuesday, is giving police and his relatives plenty of trouble. A brother-in-law, Albert Weber of near East Liverpool, reports his home has been entered twice since the boy's escape, and his snub-nosed dump truck was stolen from Weber's mine near West Point. It was recovered on the Lisbon-Salineville road Friday night. While Weber was reporting the truck theft Friday morning at the sheriff's office, someone got into the house and took two dollars and a portable radio.

Weber called the sheriff again Saturday night saying someone got in between 6 and 10 p.m. and took an electric razor, empty billfold, alarm clock and men's clothing and shoes. He suspects the youth.

Quakers Hold 8-8 Record After 82-61 Loss To Niles Five

Four Niles Players Score In Double Figures; Brelih, 25

By SKIP GREENISEN

THE SALEM QUAKERS will have to whip Youngstown Ursuline Thursday night at South Fieldhouse if they expect to end the 1951-52 season with a winning record.

The Quakers had their season record leveled Saturday night at Niles when the McKinley Red Dragons hung an 82-61 defeat on Coach John Cabas' charges.

The cage contest was held at Washington Junior High School, a court which was near the size of Salem's, but had a balcony hanging over the four corners of the floor.

HOWEVER the floor didn't have much influence in the Quakers' 21-point loss to a well-balanced Niles outfit. A highly skilled, the Red Dragons opened the game with flying colors as they tossed in 11 fielders in 18 attempts at the basket and racked up a 24-13 first quarter advantage.

Of their five starters four were 6' and over, the tallest being 6'5", and each of the four ended the game with their totals for the evening in double digits.

Jim Cline (29) led the Niles team in the first quarter scoring spree with four four-pointers while Fred Cleary (25) and Sam Scarnechia meshed three goals apiece.

The Quakers were slow starters as they fell 13-8 at mid-quarter and then watched the Dragons drive around them for a nine-point spurge in the latter part of the period while they managed three markers.

George Alek, who helped the Salem five win the night before, sparked the first period with three goals but none of the other Salem hoopers could hit as the Niles cagers cleared the boards with rebounds most of the time.

The initial period was probably the telling quarter for the locals as their defense was lax and the home team virtually ran the full period with fast breaks and good defensive play.

THE TWO TEAMS settled down some in the second stanza as the Quakers matched the 20-point output of the McKinley team. Scarnechia was the Niles big gun during the quarter as he swished three goals and a trio of free throws for a nine-point total.

Salem's 6'6" center Bill Brelih opened up with five baskets in the period but he and Alek, who got six points in the period, couldn't hold the rest of the team above the water.

Intermission found the Quakers still 11 points behind, 44-33, and the Red Dragons cooled off somewhat.

WHEN THE TWO squads returned for the third period, Niles hit another scoring streak and ran the score to, 52-35, in three minutes. The quarter ended with the locals 17 points back, 64-47.

The final quarter was mostly Niles as Coach Joe Bassett had his squad shooting for a school record which they broke by two points. The Red Dragon mentor left his starters in all the way despite the huge lead they had on the locals. They set the record of 80 earlier in the season.

Niles outscored Salem, 18-14, in the final chukker as Homer Littleton (32) led the home team with six markers. Coach Cabas used his younger players in the last quarter except for Brelih, whom he felt needed the rebound work. Alek and Eddie Votaw had fouled out of the game. Alek near the end of the third quarter and Votaw just before the game ended.

REBOUNDING WAS the point that possibly cost Salem the game, although the Bassetmentmen appeared hot at times in the game, especially the initial period. The Quakers weren't rebounding strongly enough to control the boards. When the locals did take the rebounds, faulty passes from under the hoops cost them baskets.

Neither Brelih nor Wayne Harris had the scrapping ability to mix it up under the basket but Votaw was showing rebound power at times through the tilt.

Offensively, the Quakers were confused by the swiftness of the Niles zone and many passes were thrown away as a result. Too often the locals would come down the floor without getting a shot at the bucket while the Red Dragons usually had two and three with their rebounding.

Percentagewise the two teams played evenly but the Red Dragons had the big edge since they got many more shots than the locals. Both outfits hit 35.8 from the floor but the Niles combine fired at the hoop 92 times while the Quakers could manage only 67 shots.

From the charity line Salem caged 13 of 23 shots while Niles hit 16 of 25 attempts. Brelih led the Quakers with 25 markers, 11 field goals and a trio of charity tosses. Alek ended the game with 13 points while Harris managed ten, six of them at the foul line. The 6 foot 2 inch forward was hitting from the side and missed numerous chances to score.

Cline, Cleary, Scarnechia and Littleton headed the Niles scoring as they racked up 20, 19, 18 and 13 respectively.

TONIGHT Coach Cabas will go to the Class A drawing in Youngstown to determine his opponent for the Quakers' initial tournament game. The locals have just one more game before tournament time, that against Ursuline at the South Fieldhouse Thursday night as part of a tripeheader.

Potters Drop 54-46 Game To McKinley

Playing evenly with the Canton McKinley Bulldogs for the initial half, the East Liverpool Potters fell far behind in the third quarter and lost, 54-46, in the second game of a double-header at Canton's Memorial Fieldhouse.

The Potters fell behind, 12-8, in the first period but made up the difference in the second period and deadlocked the count at 22-22 when intermission arrived.

However, the Bulldogs enjoyed a hot third stanza as they poured in 25 markers while the Potters got 13, McKinley went into the last frame on top, 47-35, and the Pups eased up, getting only seven points while East Liverpool hit for eleven. The score, however, still favored the McKinley cagers as they won by the eight-point margin, 54-46.

The game was decided in the field goal column, the winners getting 23 and the Potters, 19. Both quintets managed eight charity tosses.

Paul James led the Potters with nine goals and a free throw for a 19-point total. Fred Zander canned ten goals for a 20-point total for the winning McKinley outfit.

End of a Long and Illustrious Era

Ohio Without Baseball Teams In Triple-A-Leagues

By FRITZ HOWELL

Minor League baseball in Ohio has reached the end of a long and illustrious era!

For the first time since before the turn of the century, the Buckeye realm in 1952 is without representation in the national pastime's training grounds—the leagues under the Triple-A.

Last season Ohio had Dayton in the Class A Central Loop, Youngstown for a portion of the season in the Class C Mid-Atlantic, and Newark, Marion, Springfield and Lima in the Class C Ohio-Indiana.

All three leagues have folded, leaving only the major league Cleveland and Cincinnati teams, along with Columbus and Toledo in the American Association, to carry baseball's banner in Ohio.

DOWN THROUGH the years since 1901 when the National Association of Professional Baseball Clubs was organized, 33 different Ohio towns and cities have been represented in 11 different leagues. Akron and Zanesville hold the record, each having been in five different circuits.

Canton, Springfield and Youngstown have tried it in four leagues; Dayton, Lima, Marion and Portsmouth have been in three. Some of the towns have operated year after year, while others—like Alliance, Warren, Coshocton, New Philadelphia, Salem and Piqua—found that a lone season was enough.

Leagues bearing such names as the Western Association, Central, Mid-Atlantic, Ohio State, Ohio-Indiana, Ohio-Pennsylvania, Interstate, New International, Pennsylvania State, Mountain State and Southern Michigan have attracted Ohio members in the last half-century.

The roll of baseball greats who used the Buckeye bush leagues as stepping stones to fame reads like a "who's who of the diamond."

AMONG THE major league stars who picked up the rudiments of the game in Ohio's lower leagues were Cy Young, Honus Wagner, Bill McKechnie, Hank Gowdy, Burt Shotton, Allie Reynolds, Billy Southworth, Johnny Vander Meer, Dutch Leonard, Ned Garver, Gene Woodling, Waldo Grooms, Eddie Stanky, Virg Stallcup, Hank Sauer, Stan Rojek, Aaron Robinson, Clyde McCullough, Tommy Henrich, Mike Ryba, Mike and Frank McCormick, Phil Masi, Jim Hegan, Bob Dillinger, Joe Collins, Bill Doak, Johnny Rigney, Ernie Bonham, Dutch Siebert, Babe Phelps, Billy Herman and Roger Bresnahan. There were countless others.

Thousands of kids have gazed through thousands of knotholes to watch those stars in action. Thousands have shinned over looked the other way, just to gaze fences when the friendly cops upon their idols.

All that's gone now, and with it passes something vital and necessary. Baseball, in Ohio, is cut off at the roots. Maybe 1953 will bring it back.

HERE ARE the Ohio cities which have operated in the various leagues in the last half-century:

Western Association—Columbus, Toledo, Marion and Dayton.

Central—Dayton, Lima, Marion, Springfield, Youngstown, Zanesville, Akron, Canton.

Mid-Atlantic—Dayton, Portsmouth, Springfield, Youngstown, Zanesville, Akron, Canton.

Ohio State—Dayton, Lima, Marion, Newark, Portsmouth, Springfield, Zanesville, Middletown, Findlay, Fostoria, Fremont, Mansfield, Tiffin, Sandusky, Coshocton, New Philadelphia, Chillicothe, Ironton, Hamilton, Lancaster and Piqua.

Ohio-Indiana—Lima, Marion, Newark, Portsmouth, Springfield, Zanesville.

Ohio-Pennsylvania—Youngstown, Akron, Canton, Mansfield, Steubenville, Alliance, Salem and East Liverpool.

Interstate—Youngstown, Zanesville, Akron, Canton and Steubenville.

New International—Akron, Pennsylvania State—Warren, Mountain States—Middletown, Pomeroy.

Southern Michigan—Toledo.

Southworth Back With Boston Braves

BOSTON (UP)—Billy Southworth, who resigned as manager of the Boston Braves last June for the "good of the club," was back on the payroll today as a "liaison scout."

The rehiring of the veteran manager ended rumors that there was bad feeling when he resigned to be succeeded by Tommy Holmes and both Southworth and the Braves said they were "very happy" about the new arrangement.

"We really believe he can help us considerably," General Manager John Quinn said. "He'll go any place in the United States to look over kids and set up baseball schools for us."

Romanian Club Fares Well In Tournament

The Salem Romanian Club fared well in the National Romanian sports tournament Sunday in Canton.

The Romanian team ousted the Canton Romanians, 74-58, in the three-team tourney. The locals drew a bye and Canton knocked off Warren's club 61-49 in the initial game.

The Pridon brothers, Sam and John led the Salem group with 50 of the 74 markers as they tallied 24 and 26 points, respectively.

The local Romanians also won the bowling tourney with the high number of pins. Among the teams entered in this sport were Windsor, Canada, Warren, Canton, Youngstown, Alliance, Cleveland and Salem.

The Canton girls won the basketball championship for the female competition, beating Windsor. The female bowling title went to the Youngstown girls.

VALLEY FORGE: Inspiration for Today

General Washington had spent the first night at Valley Forge beside a campfire, shivering with his men. The next morning brought more snow and stinging cold. But not until he had offered a prize of twelve dollars to the first twelve men in each regiment to build a hut did he order his own tent pitched.

Axes rang out in the forest. Oaks crashed to earth. Horses, and men with ropes attached to their shoulders, dragged the logs to designated areas. While the logs were notched and lifted into place, Washington sat in his tent and with numb fingers wrote letter after letter to Congress complaining that his troops were without food and clothing.

will include a film of his trip to the Scandinavian countries of Europe last summer to be shown by R. J. Barrow, after which there will be round and square dancing with music by Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Edgerton of Leetonia. An attendance of close to 125 is expected.

"ELECTRONICS in Modern Business" will be the subject of a talk by Manager Barger of the International Business Machine office in Youngstown at the meeting of the Kiwanis Club at Heck's restaurant at 6:15 p.m. today. Members are asked to take their sales stamps and give them to Irvin Brittain. The fund from this source is growing and will be the subject of a report soon.

The Columbian Garden Club will meet at 1:30 p.m. Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Russell Lindsay, Allen Ave., with Mrs. Elmer Detwiler Jr., as co-hostess. Paul Wilms, Columbian nurseryman will give a talk on "Permanent Planting."

Stocks Continue Dull, Cautious Trend

NEW YORK (INS) — The stock market drifted easier today in a continuation of last week's dull and cautious trading. Only 210,000 shares changed hands in the first hour.

Losses were limited to about a point at the outside. The list appeared to be moving down from lack of demand, rather than concentrated selling.

Oils and chemicals were among the downside leaders. Standard Oil of N. J., Pure Oil and Du Pont all dipped around a point. However, Amerasia Petroleum, last week's big gainer, continued to resist the trend, moving as much as a point higher.

Most divisions, including steels, metals, television and copper, joined the easier trend. Motors and building shares displayed a slightly firmer tone. Utilities were steady.

Rails were on the minus side. Northern Pacific, Southern Pacific, New York Central, Canadian Pacific, Southern Railway and Santa Fe were fractionally lower.

Hanoverton Driver Fined $175 On Three Counts

LISBON—Richard P. Davis of Hanoverton was fined $175 and costs on three counts Sunday afternoon by Mayor Wilbur Warren as a result of a collision at 8 p.m. on W. Lincoln Way.

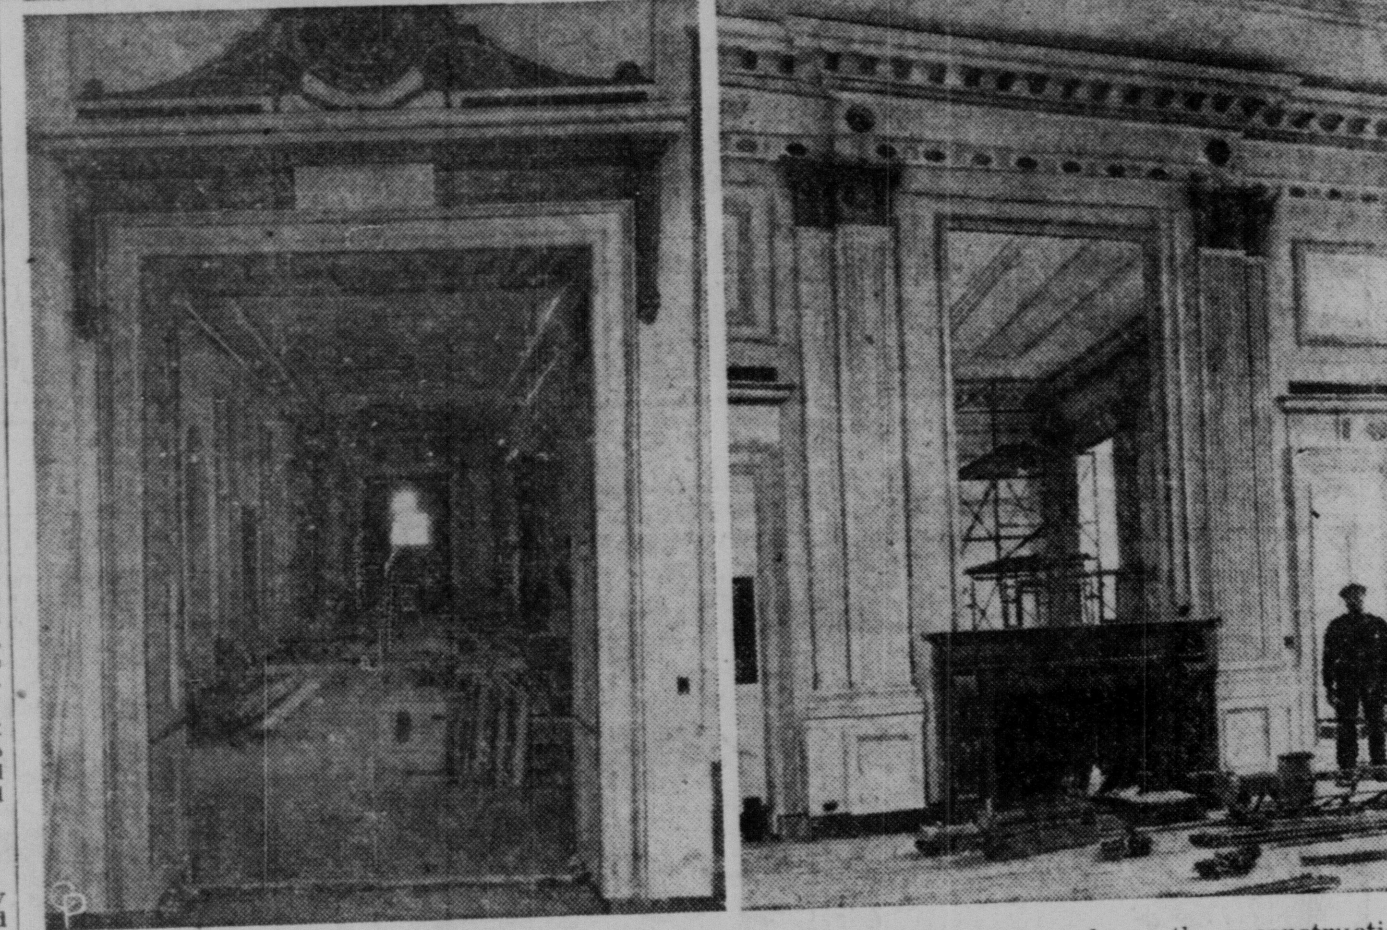

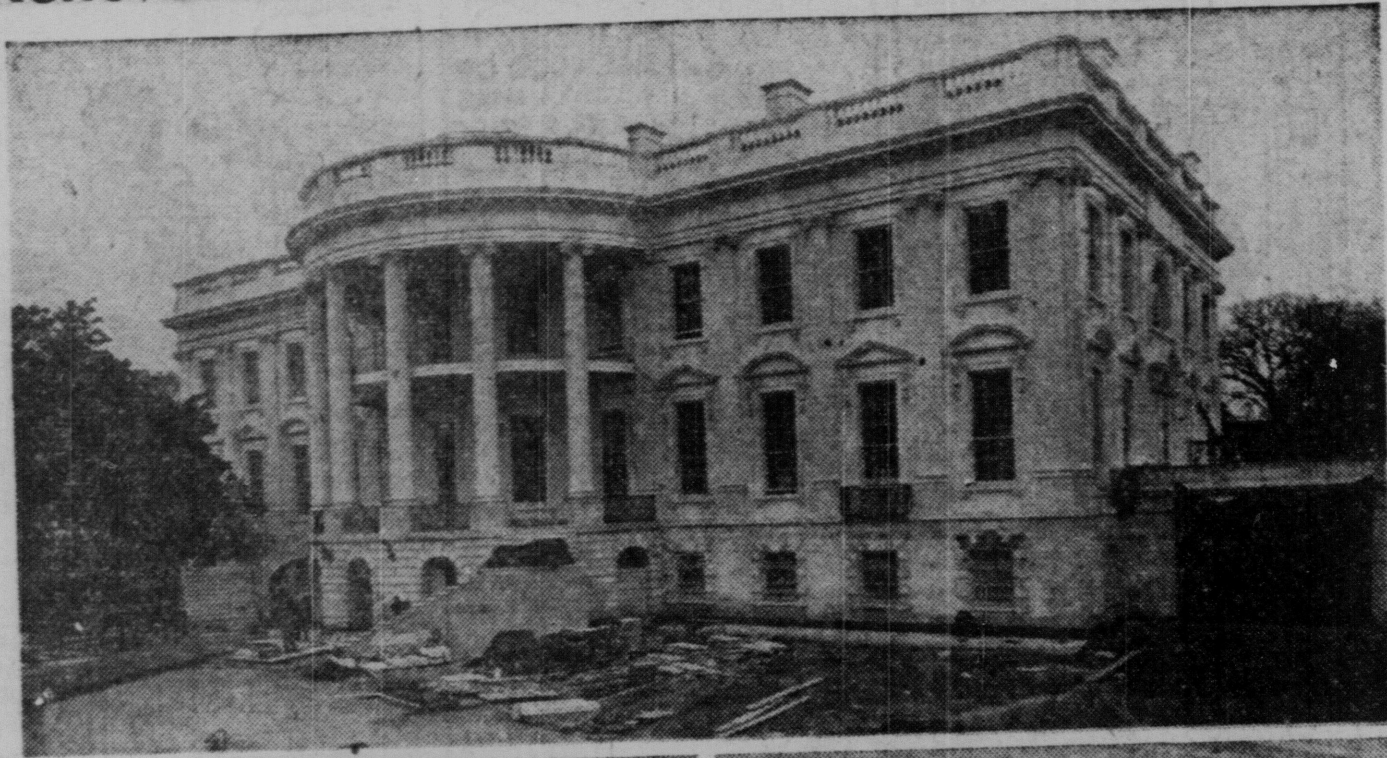

Davis pleaded guilty to drunken driving, leaving the scene of an accident, and reckless operation and was fined $100, $50 and $25 respectively. Police said he hit-skipped a car driven by Van R. Suggs of 745 E. Fifth St., Salem, who turned around and overhauled the offender. Both cars were damaged on the front and left sides.

Salesmen's Assault On Girl Investigated

EAST PALESTINE — Police are continuing their investigation of the conflicting stories being told by two magazine salesmen held in connection with a criminal assault on a 16-year-old mother Thursday.

The youths were arrested Friday in Youngstown at the request of local police after the victim's father-in-law reported that three magazine salesmen visited her home and one of them assaulted her.

Renovation Of White House Almost Completed

THESE PICTURES, just released in Washington, show the progress made on the reconstruction of the Executive Mansion to date. At top is a view of the White House without the scaffolding. At bottom, left, is the inside of the East Room looking west into main hall, first floor. On top of the door is wooden carved replica of the Seal of the President of the United States. At bottom, right, is the East Room, west wall, showing fireplace and newly installed mirror. Floor is still to be covered. The Chief Executive and his family are expected to move into the renovated building in the very near future.

Woman Fined $100 For Illegal Cohabitation

Shirley Vargo, 21, of Cadiz was fined $100 and costs and given a 30-day suspended jail sentence by Mayor Harry M. Vincent Saturday on an illegal cohabitation charge.

She was arrested Feb. 10 in the Metzger Hotel in a room occupied by Linville Brewer, 28. Her 17-year-old sister was also discovered that evening in a hotel room rented by Eloise Garsa, 28.

The two women were fined $100 and costs and given 30-day sentences in the county jail by Mayor Vincent on the day following the arrests. The younger girl was turned over to Jefferson County juvenile authorities.

Police had gone to the hotel on a tip that two men staying there closely resembled the descriptions of a pair who criminally assaulted an 18-year-old Salem girl Feb. 6. The two men were not linked with the attack, however.

Governor To Confer On Ohio Pike Steel

COLUMBUS (AP)—Gov. Frank J. Lausche said he will confer with Secretary of Commerce Sawyer in Washington today in a new attempt to get scarce steel allocated for an Ohio turnpike.

The governor said he also will confer with Manly Fleischman, defense production administrator, and Thomas H. McDonald, commissioner of public roads.

Federal officials have delayed action on Ohio's request for about 250,000 tons of steel for a toll turnpike in northern Ohio. Engineers want about 75,000 tons allocated immediately so work can start on the turnpike this summer.

Lausche said federal officials have indicated that steel currently must go into defense production instead of road construction.

Sebring May Lose Factory Over Strike

SEBRING — An effort to save the Strong Manufacturing Co. from liquidation will be made this week by Sebring business and industrial leaders as a result of the union's refusal to end the 13-day strike at the plant.

David Reed, president of the Sebring Businessmen's Association, said today that a personal appeal will be made to A. G. Rose of Cincinnati, president of the firm, to delay liquidation proceedings "until we have an opportunity to bring management and the union together for another try at negotiations."

Auto Reported Stolen 2nd Time This Month

Raymond Libert of RD 1 Leetonia has reported his car stolen for the second time this month. He told Lisbon police at 10:15 p.m. Saturday that his 1936 Ford sedan was stolen there Saturday night between 7:30 and 8 p.m. Columbiana and Leetonia police were notified.

Previously, Libert reported on Feb. 4 to Leetonia police that his car had been stolen. It was recovered south of Leetonia the next morning.

Articles Worth $175 Stolen From Station

Paul Sankbeil of 1129 E. State St., manager of Paul's Service Station at 1136 E. State St., told police Saturday that someone entered the station after 10 p.m. Friday and stole articles valued at $175.

Reported missing were 10 welding torch tips, one cutting torch tip, two tank gauges, two pressure gauges and 25 feet of hose.

Police who investigated the burglary said that the person who looted the establishment must have used a key to gain entrance.

Norway Out In Front In Winter Olympics

OSLO (AP)—Norway's skilled, durable skiers scored a brilliant one-two victory today in the 18-kilometer cross country race and the Nordics combined to vault into first place past Australia and the United States in the team competition.

The big point harvest gave the Norwegians 60 points to Austria's 41 and American's 34. Both of yesterday's leaders were blanked today.

Announces Atomic Tests

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Defense Department announced today that preparations for new atomic tests are under way in the Pacific.

WASHBOWL DESTROYED

LISBON—Police were called to the Courthouse basement at 9:45 p.m. Sunday to turn off water lines after someone tore a washbowl off the wall of the men's room. Custodian Oscar Lodge of Salem hauled away the broken porcelain and mopped up the debris.

Obituary

A. A. Streng

A. A. Streng, 79, well-known resident of New Waterford, died at 10 p.m. Saturday at his home after a lingering illness.

Mr. Streng was born March 14, 1872, in Lavansville, Pa., a son of Mr. and Mrs. Christian Streng. He was married to the former Alice Young in 1889. She preceded him in death in 1901.

In 1945 he married Corinne Smith who survives in the home. Mr. Streng was an active member of the New Waterford Presbyterian Church and always took an active interest in community affairs.

He was a Past Master of Loyal Anna Dodge No. 275 F. A. M. In 1899 in Latrobe, Pa., and later held that position in Charter 112 in Greensburg, Pa. He was also a councilor and member of Knights Templar of Greensburg, Pa.

He was a graduate of California State College Normal School, taught school in Somerset County, Pa., schools, and was principal of Latrobe Public Schools.

A number of years later Mr. Streng taught in Columbiana County Schools. In the intervening years he was a farmer in New Waterford. He is survived besides his wife by one son to his first marriage, Karl Streng of Cleveland; three sons by his second marriage, Kermit of Boston, Mass., Arthur of Warren, Kenneth of New Waterford; one daughter, Mrs. Wilbur Myers of Huntington, W. Va.; 8 grandchildren; one sister, Mrs. Minnie Boyd of Shady-side, O.

Money Bag Stolen

LISBON—A money bag containing $14.85 in silver was stolen over the weekend from D. W. Dickey & Sons feed mill on S. Lincoln Ave. Police said the intruders raised a window and used a key from a cash register to open the cabinet where the money was kept. Nothing else was disturbed.

PROMPT COURTEOUS SERVICE

Hickory Smoked Ham and Bacon Are Tops Here!

We serve more portions of these two delectable meats than any other meats. And the reason our friends come back for them day after day is because every ounce we serve is Hickory Smoked. It makes a whale of a difference in flavor. And we serve generous portions always.

Europe's Economy Balks Pact Goals

LISBON, Portugal (AP) — The North Atlantic Council's temporary council committee of "wise men" reportedly is going to tell its bosses Europe's economy can only support 75 per cent of the 50 to 60 divisions the Atlantic Allies had hoped to raise by 1953.

Informed sources said a supplemental report from the committee also would lower air strength targets but would say that naval goals can be fully met.

The new report by W. Averell Harriman and representatives of the 11 other North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) members was prepared after each government had replied to the temporary committee's original blueprint for rearmament. The new plan goes before the NATO Council when it meets here Wednesday.

French inability to meet her original target of 15 NATO divisions this year is largely blamed for the scaling down of land force goals.

Hotel Manager Robbed Of $60 By Two Youths

EAST LIVERPOOL Feb. 18 — Two boys about 15 and 18, masked with handkerchiefs and one of them armed, fled with an estimated $60 and an automatic pistol after a holdup at the Manor Hotel yesterday.

They surprised Emmet Bradway, 48, hotel owner in a private office. While the armed youth forced him to hold up his hands and face the wall, a confederate took Bradway's wallet and rifled the desk. Previously they ripped out an extension telephone.

SEECO Spring Covers for MATTRESS PROTECTION

Cleanliness Demands It

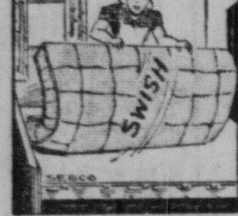

12 Reasons Why Seeco Excels In Complete Bed Protection

Springs Will Not Ruin Mattress

1. A safeguard against that constant complaint — spring rusting and gouging of mattress.

2. Easier to tuck bedding in without tearing.

Makes Mattresses Easier To Turn

8. Make the heaviest mattress EASIER to turn.

9. Makes an innerspring mattress warmer, as it keeps the cold air from penetrating through the bottom.

3. Give solid foundation for inner-spring mattress, increasing the life of mattress.

4. Insures against dust going up into mattress.

5. Made from Asbestoid Sulphate, a tough durable paper. Will give long, satisfactory service.

6. SEECO, in effect, practically makes a box spring out of a coil spring.

Less Dust Under Bed

10. The SEECO ties down flat over the springs, tapes being furnished with every SEECO, which is put up in an attractive individual package.

11. No woman wants to see her beautiful mattress ruined. Protect your investment with a SEECO!

Prevents Bed Clothes From Being Torn

12. SEECO prevents mattress ticking and bed clothes from being torn.
